Proceedings in Bankruptcy. Mr. Editor of the Tribune !

A few days since, I received a printed letter from an individual styling himself an "Attorney and Counsellor," advising me that he had been retaized by one of the creditors of an applicant under the Bankrupt Law, and offering his services to me, as one of said creditors, as " Astorney to manage the opposition."

and the information communicated by them, will be considered confidential; but in cases where sev- the green one

The meanness and effrontery of this communication disgusted me, and my first resolve was to send back the inpudent note to the miserable pet-tilegger, who was this morning about the United States Court for the purpose of exciting opposition to Bankrupt proceedings. On reflection, I con-send back the inequality note to the miserable pettifogger, who was this morning about the United States Court for the purpose of exciting opposition to Bankrupt proceedings. On reflection, I conduled that a brief notice of the contemptible proceeding, in your paper, would better subserve the ends of justice.

I have been informed that this same obtrusive correspondent is in the habit of inspecting the pertitions and schedules filed in bankruptey, and of writing the same stupid letter to each creditor of the bankrupt, taking care to state to each, what is probably false, that "having been retained by one of the creditors," A.c., he is induced to offer his services to others. By this paltry trick he thinks to get business from one or more of the creditors, by telling as many falsehoods as he writes letters.

I have no doubt that his pretended retainer is false in every case; and in one instance of Bankruptey, where this same pettifogger had solicited the like employment from the creditors of the bank-rupt, I am credibly informed that neither of them had employed him. In the case referred to, the gentleman gained nothing but the exposure of his own meanness and mendacity, and he may rest assured that in the minds of all honorable men, whether debtors or creditors, his circulars will have no other effect than to produce the conviction that one who could stoop to such means to solicit business as ' Attorney and Counsellor,' must be destitute of all bonorable feeling, and utterly unworthy of the confidence of business men.
